

Feeling stuck?

Looking for fresh ideas?

Experience the power of facilitated learning!

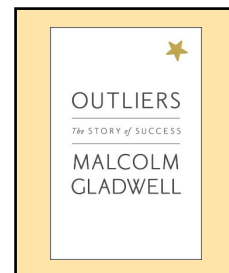

Join with other business people at either of these taster events:

March 23rd: Cork International Airport Hotel, 6-7.30pm

March 24th: Imperial Hotel, Cork, 12.30-2pm

What do I have to do to join the conversation?

1. Reserve your complimentary place at one of these special taster events by contacting Aodan Enright at 086 608 9498 or aodan@smarteregg.com
2. Get your hands on a copy of Outliers by Malcolm Gladwell and read Chapter 7 - 'The Ethnicity of Plane Crashes' (available in all bookstores)

What is it all about?

These are unique facilitated sessions where the participants learn from each other's experiences and insights as well as from thought-provoking books. The book learning element is based on the Bookbuzz™ methodology and requires participants to read short excerpts, usually 40-50 pages, from selected business books prior to the group session.

These taster sessions are in response to popular demand from the Cork business community to experience the magic of facilitated learning first-hand. The number of places at these sessions is strictly limited. Refreshments will be served.

Just some of the praise from Smarter Egg facilitated learning programme participants:

- "I have been totally blown away by this innovative and exciting experience."
- "I know my work/life balance will be majorly improved and my business will be taken to new levels with the ideas that have been generated."
- "The different ideas around the table and the people I have met through this programme have challenged my way of thinking, and helped me to move my business forwards."
- "Overall excellent, I have learnt a lot and been inspired greatly by the books. Very relevant to me, my business and my personal circumstances."
